White House press secretary Sarah Sanders said Sunday that even though Donald Trump had offered his support to be secretary of state after Rex Tillerson's ouster, Mike Pompeo "is going to be a great secretary of state." "He's a very, very good friend of the president's," Sanders said on NBC's "Meet the Press." "They've been friends for a while and they're both very competent people and I think that he's the best person for the job." "I think the president feels very confident he has somebody that he trusts in Mike Pompeo that is going to be a great secretary of state," she added. Rex Tillerson's surprise firing last week was a major blow to the president, who has been making a concerted effort to project an image of strength in recent days. Sign up for on-the-go USV breaking news delivery in your browser according to your preferences Tillerson delivered a stinging rebuke of Trump's low-key response to the tragic events in Charlottesville, Virginia, last month. "You should be ashamed of yourself," Tillerson told the president in a brief interview with the news media on the first anniversary of his administration. The comment set off alarm bells in the West Wing. But instead of responding, Trump eventually lashed out on Twitter, calling the diplomat "dumb as a rock." Without offering a coherent explanation, Trump and his aides have scrambled to portray the action in a positive light. The president visited California on Saturday to survey the damage wrought by the most powerful earthquake to hit the region since a deadly 1994 temblor, but he refused to criticize the president of Mexico for his handling of the situation. "We have not spoken yet. I haven't had a conversation with him," Trump said. "He may not call me. Maybe he will. Who knows." The mood appeared to shift after Trump received a call from his Mexican counterpart, Enrique Peña Nieto. The leaders spoke Sunday night and the White House said the conversation "was very cordial and constructive." The Trump administration still does not have a permanent replacement for Tillerson, who was replaced as secretary of state on Monday by Pompeo, a former Republican congressman from Kansas

What's New in the Photoshop CC?

The present invention relates to integrated circuit devices, and more particularly to semiconductor-on-insulator field-effect transistors and to a semiconductor-on-insulator method of fabrication. The use of finFETs (fin field-effect transistors) for high performance very-large scale integration (VLSI) and ultra large scale integration (ULSI) applications is attractive because of their improved short channel behavior and their relatively low source/drain capacitance. See, e.g., U.S. Pat. No. 8,057,450, filed Sep. 19, 2008 (filed Apr. 7, 2011 as a continuation-in-part of U.S. Pat. No. 7,832,906, filed Jul. 2, 2007, both assigned to the assignee of the present invention). FIG. 1A is a schematic cross-sectional view of a portion of a conventional finFET 100. The finFET 100 includes a substrate 102, a fin 110, an oxide layer 106, a gate stack 104 including a gate dielectric layer 106A and a gate electrode 104A, and a side wall spacer 108, as is well known. The portion of the substrate 102 on which the finFET 100 is formed may be doped with a p-type dopant in order to enhance PMOS (p-type metal oxide semiconductor) device performance. In some cases, at least a portion of the substrate 102 is dedicated to forming a device under the finFET 100. For example, a buried region 110B may be formed in the substrate 102 under the fin 110. The fin 110 includes a channel region 112 and source and drain regions 114 and 116, formed in and on opposite sides of the channel region 112. The portions of the fin 110 that are not under the gate stack 104 (i.e., portions of the fin 110 on opposite sides of the channel region 112) form upper source and drain regions 114 and 116. The source and drain regions 114 and 116 are separated from the channel region 112 by the portion of the fin 110 that is not under the gate stack 104. Further, the source and drain regions 114 and 116 in finFET 100 are formed in the substrate 102 by introducing source and drain dopants (typically phosphorous-doped source and drain regions) into the substrate 102 using an epitaxial growth process, followed by epitaxially growing a body region 118, e.g., a body
